Automobile in winter

You are coming home from college for Christmas. There is a group of you in the car. A blizzard hits. Your car slides off the road into a ditch. It is dark and there is no traffic on the road. Based on what you might have (see your list of essentials) and what you know a car usually contains, what would you do?

Canoe Trip – several days

You are taking a canoe trip with some friends. You have a rented canoe with paddles and life preservers. You have left one campsite in the morning, you are scheduled to arrive at the next campsite sometime before dusk. (The livery provides meals and tents at each campsite along the river.) Your canoe hits a boulder and is badly damaged. It is almost dusk and the next campsite could not be walked to before dark. The canoe cannot be used safely. You must spend the night at this location. Based on what you might have (see your list), what would you do?

Horseback trip – several days

You are taking a cross-state trip by horseback. The stables provide sleeping quarters and meals for you and the horses along the trail. You decided to ride off the path and now you are not certain where the trail is. One member of your party fell off the horse and broke her leg. She cannot walk. Her horse ran off. Based on what you might have (see your list), what would you do?

Camping in a forest

You are camping in a national forest. You have already pitched your tent and set up camp. You and your friends decide to take a hike through the woods. After some time, you discover that you are going around in circles. It is dusk now and you have no idea which way is 'out'. Based on what you might have (see your list), what would you do?
